A staged reading of Michael Frayn’s award-winning play COPENHAGEN about the mysterious war-time meeting between Niels Bohr and the German physicist and Nobel Laureate Werner Heisenberg. The playwright re-imagines this extraordinary meeting and tests our feelings on the moral responsibilities of scientists.

VIVIENNE MCKEE HAS ADAPTED AND DIRECTED THIS EDITED VERSION OF THE PLAY.

After the play, Nobel Laureate David Gross and professor of physics and Niels Bohr’s grandson, Tomás Bohr, will answer questions and discuss some of the issues that the play touches upon.
